CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR OVERSEAS FORCES

SEPT. 15 TO OCT. 23

"Do not open until Christmas." That exciting phrase should soon be making its appearance on parcel mail, despite the fact that many places in Canada are just recovering from the hottest spell on record.

Postmaster General Wm. P. Mulock points out that it is time to make plans for Christmas gift parcels to members of the armed forces overseas. The Christmas mailing period this year is September 15 to October 25.

LOCAL DISTRICT HOSPITAL

A meeting of the provisional committee representing Coleman, Blairmore, Bellevue, Frank, Hillcrest and the foothills, was held Tuesday evening in the town hall, when matters of organization were considered. Attending were: Mayor E. Williams, Blairmore; Mayor P. Antrobus, Coleman; Mayor R. E. Donkin, Frank; George Coupland, Bellevue; and A. W. Hollingshead, Hillcrest. At this meeting Mayor Williams was chosen board chairman, with Mayor Antrobus vice-chairman.

The main meeting convened at the Union Hall at 8:30, with Mayor E. Williams as chairman. Following a few explanatory remarks by the chairman, Mr. E. E. Maxwell, of Edmonton, supervisor of municipal hospitals, addressed the gathering of forty people. He stated that the municipal hospitals act as passed by the Alberta legislature in 1917, provided that 25% of the ratemakers could petition the minister of health to set up a municipal hospital district, or councils in the district could ask that a hospital district be set up. The councils of the Pass have asked that the district be established. The provisional board has been elected and would hold office till February of next year, at which time the ratemakers in the district would have an opportunity of electing to office representatives of their own choosing. In the case of Bellevue and Hillcrest, representatives would be elected in the summer of 1945, this to conform to provincial regulations, as both places are governed solely by the Department of Municipal Affairs. It would be the duty of the provisional board to prepare the plan for the proposed new hospital and have it advertised in papers in The Pass. A 50-bed hospital would be adequate, and would cost in the neighborhood of $100,000.

At the polls 65% of the ratemakers must favor the scheme. Non-property owners will be given the opportunity of signing a contract for hospitalization. The minimum tax to be levied on property would be around $6. Patients must pay $1 a day while being hospitalized. This will be mainly to discourage all and sundry from rushing to hospital when there is really no need.

The suggested building would be two storeys high, with good basement.

In order to secure money for the venture, debentures will be issued, with $100 as minimum, carrying interest at 4% per annum. Additional taxation of 4.75 would have to be made to finance the institution, and as encumbrances were met through the years the mill rate would naturally decrease.

THE S. A. HOME FRONT APPEAL

The Salvation Army are raising aside 15% of the September 18-20 Home Front Appeal for the necessary work of rehabilitation and reconstruction in all its phases.

Rehabilitation—a word of electric significance and import these days; a word which means the binding up of wounds, the re-uniting of families, the freeing of millions of homeless and despairing Europeans. It is a word which ushers in the dawn of tomorrow and all the tomorrows to come.

Through your assistance, the Salvation Army Home Front Appeal answers the needs of returning warriors and all needing rehabilitation, and gives them a chance to find a place in the sun and take up the threads of peacetime life with courage and hope.

Prairie Region Producers

CBC PRAIRIE REGION PRODUCERS

Behind the scenes in all CBC broadcasts are the producers—a category of technicians, or artists, or executives, their work partakes of all three—who are peculiar to radio. They are concerned with choice of music; choice of artists, actors or speakers; timing; placing of microphones; financing; and the multitude of things that go into the making of a radio broadcast. Here, on a rare occasion, a producers' conference in Winnipeg, the camera has caught CBC's producers for the Prairie Region in an informal moment. Left to right, they are: Dan E. Cameron, talks and education; Roland Morrier, popular music and variety; Norman Lucas, news producer; John Burke-Gaffney, farm and school broadcasts and music; and Ross Lundy, drama.

YANKS TO FIGHT AT MACLEOD

The U.S. Army Airforce will be represented at the colorful outdoor boxing card being staged Sept. 4th at No. 7 SFTS, Macleod. According to word just received from Edmonton by Promoter Gus Murdoch, the Yanks will send down a stable headed by Pte. Billy Peterson, former amateur middleweight champion. Peterson dropped a close decision to Cpl. Ron Whalley, 1944 Canadian army lightweight-heavyweight champion, several months ago in one of the finest battles seen in Calgary this year. Several other high-class scrappers will accompany Peterson.

A special amphitheatre is being constructed to comfortably accommodate the large crowd expected to attend the first outdoor fight card in this district. This show will include the outstanding boxers from most of the air force stations in Alberta and should provide a thrilling, action-packed bill. In addition to the Yank battlers mentioned before, the following outstanding pugilists will appear:

LAC Babe Matthews, lightweight, from No. 2 Wireless School, Calgary, who has won 25 of his 40 amateur fights by K.O. route.

LAC Cy Wallace, Macleod heavyweight, 1942 Alberta champion, all-ways a colorful fighter and never stops trying, versus Cpl. Burke, Medicine Hat, all services heavyweight runner-up, should provide plenty of opposition.

Bill McKenna, Lethbridge YMCA former army middleweight champion, versus LAC Vince Murray, winner of the RCAF elimination tournament at Calgary.

P.O. George Wilkie, welterweight from Pearce, former Vancouver amateur, versus Sgt. Tommy Kent, RCAF, London, England, 1940-41-42 RAF and 1944 all services champion.

LAC Dick Bradshaw, Macleod, 1942 featherweight champion, fast, rugged scrapper, versus LAC Chatterfield, RCAF, Liverpool, England.

Special event—LAC Jackie O'Toole, Vulcan, 1944 all services bantam champion, one of the finest fighters in Alberta, versus Francis Wright, Lethbridge YMCA, 1942 Alberta 100-pound champion.

LAC Rowe, No. 2 Wireless School, Calgary, a colorful boy from British West Indies, whose second nature is fighting. A fast moving, hard hitting lightweight.

In addition to the fight card, a track and field meet will be contested by teams from No. 15 SFTS, Calgary; No. 8 J & G, Lethbridge; No. 2 FIS, Peace; No. 19 SFTS, Vulcan; and No. 7 SFTS. This will be the final track meet of the season, and will decide the winning station in the Southern Alberta air force service league. Sports days have been held at the other units and competition has been keen. The bill includes baseball and softball games, and a mammoth dance will close the big day, which starts at 10 a.m.

SUGAR RATION MAY BE CUT

Food Administrator Kenneth W. Taylor at Ottawa on Saturday last stated that Canadians may have to get along with less sugar next year than they have during 1944. The indication followed the announcement that Ration Book 5 will include coupons to cover emergencies that may arise.

At the same time it was disclosed that the situation with regard to butter rationing has not improved, and indications are it will remain tight for months to come.

Ration Book 5 will be distributed to the Canadian public during the week Oct. 14-21.

UNITED CHURCH ANNUAL THANKSGIVING SERVICE

This service will be largely attended.

"SMALL SAVINGS" RAISE A TOTAL OF $12,000,000,000

The wartime savings of the small investor in Britain amounted to $12,000,000,000 of the end of July. This great total, announced by the National Savings Committee, represents "small" savings only, and it is made up of money invested in Savings Certificates, in Defence Bonds, and in increased deposits in the post offices and Trustee Savings Banks. A third of this tremendous amount came in 15 months, whereas it took 22 months to pile up the first third and 18 months to accumulate the second.

During the last war, savings were considerably less, but the savings facilities then were not nearly as extensive as they are today. There were then some 42,000 savings groups, while now there are over 300,000.

WINS LEGAL RIGHT COLLECT GOVT. GUARANTEED DEBT

Arising from the refusal of the provincial government to pay more than half the interest due holders of Alberta bonds and on guaranteed obligations, Mr. Justice C. C. McLaurin handed down judgment in supreme court at Calgary on Monday, authorizing the Independent Order of Foresters to execute a writ—three summonses on securities held by the Lethbridge Northern Irrigation District, guaranteed by the government, to satisfy arrears owing in interest.

Co-defendant with the Irrigation District was the provincial treasurer.

POPE TELLS LONDONERS TO BEAR TRIAL WITH CHRISTIAN VALOR

Pope Pius XII has appealed to the people of London to bear their trials with fortitude and with "Christian sentiments of forgiveness, charity and mercy, so that God may reward what the world will admire—an example of magnanimity inspired by the spirit of Christ's gospel."

The Pontiff's message was brought to London by Msgr. Bernard Griffin, Archbishop of Westminster, who recently returned from a visit to the Vatican and the Italian battlefront.

"You and yourselves, beloved children," the Pope said, "were not the least of our anxieties. For you, yes, you also, have had to pass through black days in this most terrible of all wars, and those days are still with you."

"We have sympathized deeply with your affliction, and when destruction and death were upon you we prayed for you daily and hourly. . . ."

"Our lively hope and our confident conviction is that you will work toward realization of universal harmony in Christ while in word and act, through prayer and personal sacrifice and the shining example of a sincere Christian life, you help those millions of noble souls who are your separated brethren to return to the fold, and so make your contribution toward the establishment of an earth of the reign of Christ, the Prince of Peace."

SUNDAY SPECIAL DAY OF INTERCESSION TO ALMIGHTY GOD

The Canadian government has requested that Sunday next, September 3rd, be observed as a Special Day of Prayer and Intercession to Almighty God, it being the fifth anniversary of the commencement of the war.

The evening service at Central United church will take that form, in charge of Rev. James McKelvey. A large congregation is expected. You are cordially invited.

THE PRICE OF EGGS!!

The price of eggs. Why Alberta went Social Credit.

A farmer is mighty lucky if he gets from 23c to 33c a dozen for his eggs. One farmer in the west writes us that twenty-five dozen of his neighbor's eggs were refused altogether because they were too small, yet the other day, so the daily paper reported, No. 1 eggs went for 48c a dozen in Sarnia.

But the eggs of professional men have no limit to price. Ask your member of parliament what he gets for the eggs he lays or the price per hour for the time he worries and works.

Is it any wonder that Alberta again went solid Social Credit? The handwriting is on the wall. A hog is born every second.—Wallaceburg News, Ontario.

Weddings seem to be the order of the day in the Michel-Natal district, several couples falling for the trick during the past three weeks.

Sam Jones, well known CPR conductor through this district, retired on pension last evening, after 45 years of railroading in Southern Alberta and Southeastern British Columbia. Sam was ever popular and will be missed.

All are looking forward to the 27th annual flower show and sports, to be held in Bellevue on Monday next, starting with children's sports at 10 a.m. A bicycle race will start from Blairmore for Bellevue at 12:30 noon, to be followed by a lot of people on foot, including Scotch fells. The best display of flowers, vegetables, etc. is promised, also school art. At night a dance will bring the programme to a close.

Reconstruction In India

INDIA IS PERHAPS the most colorful member of the British Empire and her political history has also been colorful and frequently stormy. Although they are still far from settled in many respects, the people of India have united sufficiently to make a remarkably fine contribution towards the Empire's war effort. With the entry of Japan into the struggle, India became increasingly important as an outpost of the Empire from the military standpoint, and it has been the base for many important moves in that theatre of war. However, like all the people of the Allied nations, those of India are looking forward to the time when peace will be restored and life will again proceed under normal conditions.

Agriculture To Be Stimulated

Like many other countries, India has been laying plans for the post-war years. No doubt the most important of these plans centre around the prospect of self-government, which Britain has promised they will enjoy when the war is ended. They have, however, been making provision for developments in many lines, and it is especially interesting to us in Canada, to hear of some of their plans for the future in regard to agriculture. It has recently been announced by a special committee of the Imperial Council of Agricultural Research that a program has been worked out through which it is hoped to increase agricultural production in India by fifty per cent. in the first ten years after the war, and to one hundred per cent. in the following five years. To assist in accomplishing this, provision has been made for capital expenditure of $3,000,000,000, and an additional annual outlay of $60,000,000 for the entire fifteen years.

Standards Of Living Rise

Various means are being worked out to effect this enormous increase in production. They include bringing more land under cultivation, and increasing the productivity of land now in use. There will also be an extension of India's already great irrigation scheme, and other improvements in the supply and conservation of water. These developments will not only result in greater efficiency in farming operations, but will serve in a more important respect, that of providing enough of the right kind of food for every citizen, and of generally improving the standard of living, which in many cases has been at a very low level. This is one part of Britain's master plan for helping native populations throughout the Empire to improve their economic and social status.

SMILE AWHILE

"You seem very quiet tonight, Roland," said the pretty girl. "Are you sure you love me?" "Love you?" Roland exclaimed. "Good heavens, Rhoda, when we were saying good-bye at the gate last night, your dog bit a piece out of my leg, and I didn't even notice it till I got home!"

"Did you know I had a little money when you married me?" "No, I thought you had a lot."

"Is this village lighted by electricity?" "Only when there's a thunder-storm."

Jake—"I just saw a girl with a glass eye."

Mike—"How did you know? Did she tell you?"

Jake—"No, stupid, it came out in the conversation."

"Does your husband worry over the increasing cost of living and the mounting grocery bills?" "No," he says there's no sense in both him and the grocer worrying over the same bills."

"Now, then, young man," demanded her father irritably, when he called for the tenth time, "what do you want with my daughter?" "Wi-with her, sir? Well, you know best what you can afford."

Blake: "Don't you think it a good idea to rate all cars according to their horsepower?" Drake: "Not as good as rating all drivers according to their horse sense."

The discouraged owner of a small coffee shop in Ohio gave up the ghost and placed a sign on the door: "No coffee, no sugar, no help, no oil, no heat, no profit. If you want a square meal, join the army."

Stranger: "Did you see a pedestrian pass here?"

Local: "No, I've been here all afternoon and not a thing has passed me except one man, and he was on foot."

"I'm sorry, old man, but I make it a rule never to lend money. It ruins friendship."

"But why let that bother you? We never were what you might call wonderfully good friends, were we?"

Auntie: "How did Jimmy get on in his history exam?"

Mother: "Not very well, but it wasn't his fault. They asked him things that happened before the poor boy was born." 2583

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—Is it necessary to register with the Wartime Prices and Trade Board to sell a small quantity of honey?

A.—If you produce less than 4,000 pounds of honey you must register with your local ration board; if you produce over 4,000 pounds you must register with the nearest branch of the Ration Administration.

Q.—I am planning on purchasing a fur coat this fall and would like to know if the prices are controlled by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board?

A.—The prices of fur coats are not controlled by the Board. The purchaser is protected by a Board order which makes it necessary for the furrier to attach a tag to each garment showing the correct name of the fur as well as the trade name.

Q.—Am I entitled to canning sugar coupons for my new baby?

A.—Yes, when you make application for your baby's ration book you will receive "F" coupons to cover the purchase of canning sugar.

Q.—Is comb honey rationed?

A.—Comb honey in standard wooden sections, 4½ inches by 4½ inches or 4 inches by 5 inches, has been removed from the list of rationed commodities. Cut comb honey and extracted honey remain on the ration list on the basis of two pounds per preserves coupon.

Q.—I live alone and do not use very much milk and would like to know how I can purchase canned milk. I am in a restricted area and do not know how I can obtain the necessary coupons.

A.—If you live in an area where evaporated milk is sold by ration coupon, and you require special evaporated milk coupons it will be necessary for you to have a doctor's certificate. However, sweetened condensed milk is not rationed and you may buy it without coupons.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

Remove Rubble

Group Of Canadian Engineers Doing Good Work In Britain

Picked for building, determination and "know how," a special group of Royal Canadian Engineers is helping to minimize the effect to the flying bomb. Under the direction of Lieut. Cecil Gill, Vancouver, 23 men from across Canada have gained and hold the reputation of being able to move more rubble in less time than any other squad of comparable size in the London area.

Though they are under the direction of Canadian Military Headquarters, the men have been directed to assist the civil authorities in rescuing bomb victims when their services are not required for military duties. Military demands on their specialized knowledge have been light during the past few weeks, and the squad has performed a number of difficult rescues and accomplished rubble demolitions for the civil officials.

The group, consisting of two Heavy Rescue Squads, is largely made up of miners and construction workers, though one of the sergeants in charge of a squad, Tom Boyd of Moncton, N.B., was a railway engineer before he joined the forces. All have a good knowledge of building construction, and have had experience in their work which nerves them to go into buildings that seem ready to collapse into a jumbled heap of wreckage. Sgt. Art. Bouvin, Vancouver, B.C., knows the ins and outs of shoring tottering walls, for he was a miner in civil life and knows the stresses and strains that timbers will stand.

Lieut. Gill, in charge of the squad, boasts that he will pit his men, all of whom are over 40, against any other team of the same size in a race with time through broken beams and tumbled bricks. Gill spent most of his life in the construction business on the West Coast, building big paper mills, and later working with the British Columbia telephone system.

CERTAIN FOODS RESTRICTED

Cafes and hotels in Colombo, Ceylon, established after September, 1939 have virtually gone vegetarian since June 1, 1944, because of defence regulations prohibiting the sale, supply and service of certain foods. The regulations also place food restrictions on parties, both private and public.

Future Safeguards

Occupation Of Enemy Countries Will Be Found Necessary

One of the most reassuring statements yet to be made by any Allied leader has come from President Roosevelt. It is to the effect that unconditional surrender by Germany and Japan will also involve the occupation of these countries. There may be right now a near approach to the occupation of Germany.

Ever since 1918, there has been a realization among many of the most competent observers that Berlin should have been occupied in that year and also other parts of Germany. Failure to do so unquestionably encouraged the German spirit of revenge and gave them impetus for this present struggle, now nearly five years in duration. It can't happen again 20 years hence.

As for Japan, the American leaders must know, whereof they speak. Two years ago Tokyo looked a long way off. But it is not so remote at the present time. The Japanese government may well now demand the insurance of peace for peace after Germany is secured, but the terms of peace will be occupation by Allied forces. And they will be largely American, as a matter of course.

The devastation wrought by the Japanese will be a matter of safeguarding future generations, an antidote against the vicious doctrine which Germans invented after the last war, that German armies were never defeated. A new version of that doctrine may be expected this time, something along the line that with the whole world arrayed against the Reich, Germany could not win. There will be the implication of a next time, when conditions won't be the same. That is the sort of thing which will have to be watched.

The Russians have the right idea. They have paid enormous premiums and will now demand the insurance policies in terms of Draconian peace that there won't be a next time. And by and large the Russians will be aided and abetted by the British. The people in remembrance of the robbery that the vengeful killing of innocents in England, a task in which the Nazi criminals engage themselves to this moment, when they know the war is lost. Nor will the United States be soft if Roosevelt has the renewed mandate. — St. Catharines Standard.

A Special Technique

Developed For Keeping Mortality Low In Shipments Of Animals

A special technique has been developed for shipping animals, wild and domestic, assuring proper food, ventilation and other demands, and the mortality in transit is surprisingly low. In a single week recently the Railway Express Agency in the United States handled 211 live animals, including 66 birds, 75 dogs, countless baby chicks and grown chickens, ducks, rabbits, pigeons and aquarium fish in tank containers, a turtle, a hog, a crow, a horse and a snake.

Corporal Punishment

Canadian Spanks 13-Year-Old Nazi For Spitting In Face

The story of how a member of the Canadian Provost Corps spanked a 13-year-old German prisoner-of-war on a French roadside after the prisoner spat in his face was related in a letter received in Toronto by Mrs. Ross Pierce from her husband who is a lieutenant in a tank reinforcement group in France. Mrs. Pierce revealed contents of the letter, she said her husband related how he recently passed a group of 60 to 70 dejected-looking German prisoners of war guarded by one provost. Off to one side was a lone provost, also accompanied by one provost.

"He was a pure kid," Lieut. Pierce wrote, "a real 'Hitler youth' in uniform. He was anything but dejected and spat in the provost's face."

The letter then related how the provost picked the youngster up and spanked him. "Yes, on the bottom," he said. "The other Germans roared with laughter, Lieut. Pierce wrote, and he added that he never had seen a better illustration of applied psychology. He said he found out later that the prisoner was only 13 years old."

"I've found a far better way to correct constipation! The diet gives me the kind of lasting relief I've always wanted, and never got, from harsh pills and purgatives. I've tried ever so many, but it's KELLLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly for me from now on."

If your constipation is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, try ALL-BRAN. It gets at the cause of such trouble, supplies "bulk-forming" material needed for easy, natural elimination! Romania's Rich Oil Fields Will Fail To Allies

Hitler's Balkan house of cards has begun to tumble. Romania, richest and most turbulent of the states of southeast Europe and economically the most valuable of the remaining German satellites, has declared herself out of the war.

Bulgaria has been trying to get out for some time. Her latest efforts to quit before Germany collapses, received a cold reception from belligerents on both sides.

If Romania can make her decision stick against the opposition of a German army already in Romania, the Nazis will have finally lost the greatest natural oil resources in Europe—already reduced by Allied air attacks and closely threatened by the advancing Russian armies.

In announcing that Romania had accepted Allied armistice terms and was "taking her fate in her own hands," young King Michael and his advisers apparently beat shaky Bulgaria to a similar decision by a brief margin. The Bulgarian parliament approved fully the peace plea of that country's premier.

Michael's announcement indicated that Romania hoped to follow Italy's example by becoming at least a "co-belligerent" of the United Nations, saying Romania would fight "the enemy," obviously meaning the Germans.

Romania has been the key to the entire German position in the Balkans.

It was there that Hitler made his first infiltration to break up the Balkan bloc in 1940.

It was there that he gathered his troops first for the penetration of Bulgaria and then for the conquest of Greece.

It was in Romania that he built one of his major springboards for the 1941 attack on Russia, during which Romanian troops on the northern front, under the command of Marshal Antonescu, were nearly doubled by adroit manoeuvres at the peace tables, with the late glamorous Queen Marie a leading figure in the political manoeuvring.

POLISH ARMY

Receives Congratulations From Lieut. Gen. Crerar

WITH THE CANADIANS IN FRANCE—Lt. Gen. Crerar sent a message of congratulations to Gen. Stanislaus Maczek, commander of the Polish armored division which fought with the Canadians in the battle for Falaise and in the Trun Gap.

The message said Polish troops played "an important and gallant part in the recent fighting" and added:

"The 1st Canadian army is proud to count the Polish armored division among its formations. If we all work as determinedly and as well together in the future as we have in the recent past, our mutual celebration of final victory cannot be long delayed."

CAUSING DELAY

Reactionaries Holding Up Negotiations For Finnish Armistice With Russia

STOCKHOLM.—Reactionary agrarian and conservative quarters in Finland are attempting to delay an armistice with Russia, according to information received here from Finland. These factions were reported to be saying in essence: "Allied successes in the west are entirely in the Finnish favor. It betters our position because it is restoring a balance of power between the Anglo-Americans and the Russians. If we continue to hang on we are likely to get a better peace."

WOMAN IN CREW

LONDON.—In a despatch from France, Doon Campbell, Reuters News Agency war correspondent, said that a German woman had been discovered among the dead crew of a German tank knocked out in recent fighting with the British Second Army.

Delegation To Peace Conference

Sir Alexander Cadogan, chairman of the British delegation to the Four Power conversations on post-war security plans, arrives in the Washington airport. Left to right are: U.S. Undersecretary of State Edward R. Stettin, Sir Alexander Cadogan, and former U.S. ambassador to Japan, Joseph Grew.

Prospects Are Bright For The Peace Parley

WASHINGTON.—Three senators declared they saw bright prospects for the Dumbarton Oaks conference, as British, American and Russian delegates settled the task of framing a proposed international organization to keep the peace.

Predicting senate approval of the conference's work, Chairman Tom Connally (Dem., Tex.) of the foreign relations committee said that the prospects for success were "indeed propitious." The present conference, he told the senate, will be followed by another that brings together higher officers of the Allied governments.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg (Rep., Mich.) declared the conference convened under "the happiest possible prospects of good effect."

In another senate speech, Senator Sheridan Downey (Dem., Cal.) asserted that "great events" are in the making at the conference—which he described as fulfilling the "prophetic vision" of Woodrow Wilson.

As the conference work proceeded, John Foster Dulles arrived in the capital to submit Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's ideas on a peace organization to State Secretary Hull.

At the conference itself, there was an exchange of views behind closed doors, with the chief Russian delegate, Ambassador Andrei A. Gromyko, leading off.

FIRED ON FLAG

Germans Allowed Approach Of Truce Party Almost To Gun Muzzles WITH A NAVAL TRUCE PARTY OFF CAPE GIENS—German shore batteries opened fire at point blank range on a white truce flag after permitting its approach almost to the gun muzzles, states war correspondent George Tucker.

Commanded by Lt.-Col. William C. Baxter, Baltimore, Md., the truce party was approaching the harbor of Porquerelle to demand the island's unconditional surrender when 88-mm. guns began to whistle projectiles around the torpedo boat carrying the party.

Two large white flags were prominently displayed on the deck and couldn't be mistaken for anything except truce flags. I can vouch for this because I held one of them.

We escaped without casualties and battleships and cruisers shelled high explosive shells into the peninsula.

BEFORE INVASION

One Of Germany's Admirals Committed Suicide In French Village ST. EUTROPE, France.—Admiral Siegfried Wiedner, 55, commander of German marine forces in southern France and charged with the defence of naval establishments from Nice to Perpignan, committed suicide in this village at the outskirts of Aix-en-Provence four days before the Allied invasion.

The Admiral's French secretary found the body in his study on Aug. 11, after hearing a shot.

French resistance leaders said they heard the Germans had planned to kill Wiedner because it was believed he was implicated in anti-Nazi plotting.

WOMEN HARVESTERS

Two Groups From Ontario May Possibly Come To Alberta

EDMONTON.—Possibility that women from eastern Canada may help in harvesting Alberta's grain crop was revealed by A. P. MacLachlan, acting manager of the national selective service office here.

"We were advised by the regional superintendent at Winnipeg that arrangements are completed for the excursion of civilian workers to the prairies in the near future," he said.

"The workers will include two groups of women. The first group will include women now employed in Ontario whose homes are on prairie farms and the second is of women who have had farm experience in Ontario and have been asked by their western friends to assist in the harvest work."

OFFICIAL FIGURE

Number Of Athabaskan Crewmen Held By Germany Is 81

OTTAWA.—The number of crewmen made prisoners of war when the Canadian destroyer Athabaskan was sunk in the English channel last April is given officially now as 81 with the addition of the name of Lt. Allen B. Thrasher, Toronto, naval headquarters announced.

The German radio claimed that 85 crewmen were rescued after the sinking and are prisoners. Forty-three survivors reached Britain and at the time of the original announcement it was stated that 203 crewmen were missing. This figure included the 85 men which the Germans said were rescued.

Recall Scenes Of Battles Of First Great War

OTTAWA.—As the 1st Canadian army pushed towards the Seine river in a drive by the Allied armies to clear the northern coast of France of Germans, it is heading towards the scenes of some of the bloody battles in which the Canadian corps fought during the First Great War. The next water barrier after a crossing of the Seine, is the river Somme and the entire Canadian corps of four divisions was in the thick of the battle of the Somme in September, October and November of 1916.

That battle or long series of great battles is regarded as one of the turning points in the First Great War.

As the Canadian army now fights a few miles south and west of the Seine, it is about 100 to 150 miles distant from names of places which are familiar to thousands of Canadian veterans.

They are St. Etienne, Sanctuary Wood and Hooge, where Canadians fought in June, 1916; Courcellette, the scene of the Canadians' special show in the battle of the Somme; Vimy Ridge, which the Canadians captured in April, 1917; Paschendaele, where they fought in October and November of that year.

Beyond the Somme was the jumping off place for the great Allied offensive which brought the last war to a close in 1918.

The great battle of Amiens in August of that year found the Canadians in action and one of their special contributions to victory was the smashing of the Quent-Drocourt line, a part of the famous Hindenburg defence system, which the Germans considered impregnable.

Mexico's first navy was a tiny flotilla of armed rowboats.

Liberation Of Paris By The French People

PARIS.—The French 2nd Armored Division entered Paris after the Parisians arose as one man to beat down the motley, terrified German troops who had garrisoned the city.

It was the people of Paris who really won back their city. It all happened with fantastic suddenness.

Patriots liberated the capital from four years of bondage by beating down the German garrison in street fighting as bloody as any the French Revolution ever saw.

Immediate occupation had not been in Allied plans. It was supposed to wait while the main military weight was hurled against Evreux to pin down as much of the German 7th army as possible along the Seine northwest of the capital.

With a great force of Allied armored troops poised in an assault are almost half way around the capital, 50,000 armed French patriots, aided by several hundred thousands citizens who wielded what arms they could find, defeated the Nazi occupation forces in a four-day battle.

The patriots occupied all public buildings and arrested all Vichy government representatives who did not flee, said a formal announcement signed by Lt.-Gen. Koenig, commander of the French forces of the interior and newly-named military governor of Paris under Gen. De Gaulle.

Around the world—in London, New York, Buenos Aires, Algiers, and scores of other cities—the release of the "city of light" from the darkness of Nazi rule was hailed in ceremonies featuring the playing of "The Marseillaise," historic anthem of liberty, and the raising of the tri-color of the republic.

Liberation of the capital was coupled with rumors that Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt might hold their next meeting there soon.

It was pointed out in London that no attempt would be made to move a full civilian governmental organization into Paris until the Germans are cleared out of the entire area and the danger of their return in force is passed.

The fact that the liberation of Paris was accomplished by the French and announced by them rather than by Allied supreme headquarters, may have been part of Allied strategy to bolster French confidence and emphasize to the world the resurgence of France.

NEW VACCINE

Announce The Discovery Of A Cure For Cholera

TORONTO.—Dr. Ellice MacDonald, of Port Ellice, Sask., director of the Franklin Biochemical Research Foundation at Nevers, Delaware, has announced the discovery of a new anti-cholera vaccine, it was learned here. The announcement follows three years work by Dr. MacDonald and his associates, Drs. Robert J. Jennings and R. W. Johnson.

Easy to produce, the vaccine contains no reaction producing substances and is inexpensive. The report, published in the current issue of the Franklin Institute's Journal, says the new vaccine "should pave the way for the elimination of that dread plague throughout the world."

The new vaccine can be produced in a few days and only one dose is required as cure or preventative. The dose is so small that 65,000 doses can be carried in a small flask, the report says. Immunity is produced for a year.

Dr. MacDonald, who has been head of the Franklin Institute for many years, is a brother of the late Brig.-Gen. H. F. MacDonald, chairman of the Canadian pensions board, and the late D. H. MacDonald, one-time leader of the opposition in the Saskatchewan legislature.

When handing out a bit of praise for those who've tried in humble ways the burden of the fight to share, it seems to me to be but fair that all the world should be told how farm-women took a hold, and, with their sons and daughters gone, just set themselves to carry on. And farm boys and girls have done a job of work excelled by none. They've worked before and after school

SNAPSHOTS RAISE MORALE

Servicemen like to have pictures of their families in familiar home surroundings rather than against the formal studio background. Every branch of the YMCA in base towns or even mobile canteens, is acting as an order office to supply such pictures. The men make their applications, which are forwarded to London headquarters. Then a corps of 1,500 amateur photographers goes into action. They are volunteers who joined this scheme and who, in their spare time, visit the homes of servicemen to take snapshots. Even General Montgomery has taken advantage of the plan. One of the amateur photographers visited his son's school and, at Montgomery's request, forwarded the latest snapshot of the boy.

NOTICE TO EMPLOYERS AND THEIR MALE EMPLOYEES

By an order signed on August 15th, 1944, by the undersigned Minister of Labour under authority of National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations:

1. Commencing August 22nd, 1944, every employer is required to check the documents held by each newly engaged male employee, within 7 days of the employee's engagement, to determine if such employee possesses documents to show that he is in good standing under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations (that is, in relation to the Military Call-up);
2. Every employer must report on Schedule 9 to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division, concerning any employee found not to possess documents as referred to;
3. Every employer is required similarly to check the documents held by each male employee newly engaged between May 1st, 1944, and August 22nd, 1944, and to report to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division by August 29th, 1944, on any such employee found not to possess documents as referred to;
4. Any male employee here referred to, is required by the Regulations to present his documents to his employer for purposes of inspection;
5. Penalties are provided for any employer or male employee who fails to comply with these Regulations.

By an earlier order, employers were required to check the documents held by their male employees and to report by May 1st, 1944, on doubtful cases as well as cases where employees did not possess documents. The procedure for the present continuing check, although being notified to employers in "Notice to Employers and their Male Employees", which is now being mailed, is identical with that set forth in "Employer's Guide", which covered the check made before May 1st, 1944.

Employers are asked to remember that they do not report on men who do possess the necessary documents—only on those who fail to present documents for examination, or where there is doubt that the document presented actually proves good standing.

The employers of Canada co-operated very satisfactorily on the first check, made up to May 1st last. This co-operation was decidedly helpful, and is very much appreciated. Further co-operation is now earnestly requested.

Schedule 9 and details as to documents which prove good standing, are available through the Employment and Selective Service Offices.

HITLER'S LAMENT

(By Sergt. Mahoney, RAF)
I am feeling sad and lonely, oh that I was ever born—
I have caused a lot of trouble in my day.
I have no friends in Munich since dear old Hess has gone,
And I'm feeling that the end's not far away.

I should have known in by-gone days my plans were not well made;
I've gambled with the future and I've lost.
I felt so sure of winning, to be master of the world,
That I didn't even stop to count the cost.

I had taken over Europe, and I kept the people down,
For my cruelty they think I am a beast;
But by far my greatest blunder, and it comes home to me now,
Was when I invaded Russia in the east.

But I hoped to beat the Russians before they got too strong,
Then switch my mighty armies to the west;
And the Russians let us in their land only to wipe us out—
My prayers can not stand up to meet the test.

I am feeling kinds of worried and wouldn't you be, too,
If in planning you had tried to do your best.
The only hope I have now is that good old wall of mine,
Which is built of steel and concrete in the west.

But at last my dreams have vanished—that wall has broken down.
My enemies pour through that gap like rain.
Montgomery himself is there—his plans are working well—
He has beaten my best generals once again.

I have no hope of winning now, and am feeling rather sad;
But I'll murder all I can before I go. All people seem to hate me, when once they thought me grand;
I no longer can distinguish friend from foe.

I have no friends around me now—I'm an outcast of my own.
That double-crossing Goebbels I detest.

I never did like Himmler, and Goering's just as bad—
I wish I'd fled to England with old

Hess.

I have not long to stay here. What little time I've got I'll throw these secret weapons in the fray.
I have murdered many thousands and I'll murder thousands more.
Before I'm doomed to face that fateful day.

This war has made me feeble and I cannot think no more.
I have seen my plans all drifting with the wind.
I am due to make departure from this life and not too soon.

I dare not see the Allies in Berlin.
No more shall I see armies goose-stepping down the streets,
To whom I promised many things to come.

If I must die by my own hand, then I shall shoot myself,
For I do not want to ride a flying bomb.
I imagine all the agony I would be going through,
Strapped to one of those Doodle-bugs of mine;

But I hope they won't do that to me—it is an awful death.
I would rather take a bullet any time.
So, farewell all you Germans, who fell for all my doze.
You were a bunch of suckers and you lost.

I had a grand time while it lasted, and now I'm off to hell,
And leaving you to figure out the cost.
I agreed with the devil some twenty years ago
To do a better job than Kaiser Bill.
So should my ghost come back to stay among you once again.
It is likely I've been kicked right out from hell.

SAUL REJECTED

Golden text: Because thou hast rejected the word of the Lord, he hath also rejected thee from being king. I Samuel 15:23.

Lesson: I Samuel, Chapters 13, 15, 18.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 15.

Explanations and Comments

The Israelites' Fear of the Philistines' Great Army, I Samuel 13:3, 6. Saul had directed Saul to wait for him seven days at Gilgal, where he would come and offer sacrifices and advise him what to do. I Samuel 10:8.

Saul waited the set time (seemingly until the beginning of the seventh day), and Saul matters in to his own hands and offered sacrifice which the commentator, Adam Clarke, emphatically asserts "was most perfectly unconstitutional." The self-willed, self-appointed king saw no need of waiting for the prophet of the Lord. Matthew Henry even thinks he was pleased with the opportunity of letting Samuel know that he needed him, not, could do well enough without him!

Saul's Excuse and Samuel's Reply, I Samuel 13:10-14. Samuel arrived on the scene at the end of Saul's sacrifice, and Saul went forth to meet him, "that he might salute him." The Revised Version has the translation "that he might bless him," and Matthew Henry comments: "He went out to bless him as if he now thought himself a complete priest, empowered to bless as well as sacrifice."

"What hast thou done?" exclaimed Samuel. Then Saul gave four reasons for his action: the people were fast leaving him, the prophet himself was to blame for he had not come as he had promised, the Philistines were gathering at Michmash, and would attack at Gilgal, and God's help had not been sought in this extremity. Thus Saul justified his action and ended, "Therefore I forced myself to offer a burnt offering," a statement that implied he had committed this sacrilege, if sacrifice it were, with the greatest reluctance, but he could not have done otherwise.

An Evil Spirit Troubles Saul, I Samuel 16:14-23. To the Hebrew mind everything was from God, whether good or ill, and the melancholy spirit that bordered on madness which possessed Saul was said to have come from God. Saul's servants urged him to have a skillful harpist come and play before him, whose music would "drive the evil spirit away."

"Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast," we still say. Saul agreed to this, and one of the young men recommended for the office of a son of Jesse the Bethlehemite, who was skilful in playing, a mighty man of valor, a man of war, prudent in speech, a comely person, and God was with him. Saul sent for David. David appeared and so pleased Saul that he asked Jesse to let David "stand before him," that is, become one of his servants. Saul loved him greatly and made him his armor-bearer. And whenever the mad attack came upon Saul, David was able with his playing to drive it away.

Sea Weeds

New Chemical Industry Is Being Developed In Scotland

Gulliver found the scientists of Laputa distilling sunbeams from cucumbers. A no less amazing new industry is being developed in Scotland, to derive chemicals from seaweed. In recent years seaweed has been found to have extensive potentialities in relation to the making of textiles, transparent paper, plastics, foodstuffs, sling material, surgical, medical and dental materials.

A Scottish Seaweed Research Association is being formed to look into the possibilities of this new industry in Scotland, under the eyes of the Ministry of Supply and the Scottish Council on Industry. The Development Commissioners will give pound grants to the Association up to a maximum of £25,000. (£100,000). The Engineering Division will maintain and develop a ship specially equipped for the survey and collection of deep-sea weeds.

Level Crossings

Fatalities Likely To Continue Under Existing Conditions

Grade separation of railway rights-of-way is shown to be the only real solution of level crossing accidents, as fatalities are likely to continue until the crossings are eliminated. The cost of removing them and establishing subways or bridges would be considerable, but it should be possible, and is in the public safety, to improve these crossings where the hazard is admittedly high.

Where main lines of railways intersect highways, whether in rural or urban districts, the danger is often great and the utmost vigilance has to be exercised if accidents are to be avoided. Most level crossings on main lines in cities, however, are protected by gates and watchmen.—Hamilton Spectator.

GOT DOWN TO WORK

As two elderly ladies were walking along the street they passed a couple of military policemen. One of the ladies drew the other's attention to the armlets bearing the letters M.P. "That's what I call sensible," she said, "it's much better for them to patrol the streets than to waste their breath in the House of Commons."—London Answers.

Natural Rubber

A Good Market For The Natural Product After The War

The country's synthetic-rubber industry is now producing artificial rubber in a volume more than 30 per cent. greater than the annual imports of natural rubber in peace times.

From almost a "standing start" after the outbreak of war, the United States has fashioned a synthetic-rubber industry, which is now producing at the rate of 836,000 long tons annually.

After talks with rubber-goods manufacturers and close observation of the operation of synthetic tires and other products they are convinced that there will be a market for natural rubber for a good while after the war.—New York Times.

Diamond mines now use an X-ray device to detect gems stolen by workers. The ray makes the diamond glow green in the stomach if it is swallowed.

Permanence Of Peace

Depends On How Much People Are Willing To Sacrifice

When war ends, does peace come? Above the human race has made the fatal assumption that peace naturally follows war, that the alternative to war is peace.

What has followed every war throughout the ages? Not peace, but an armistice which should not be confused with peace. The time may be short or long during which an armistice lasts. But peace has the characteristic of permanence—it abides as do faith and hope and charity. We must not make the mistake of assuming again this time that the inevitable consequences of war is peace. In the 1920's and 30's we thought that a peace had been made. We did not realize that we had run out on what we had made, and it turned out to be only one more in a seemingly endless series of armistices.

If we are to have peace, we must win it even as war must be won. We could call a million witnesses to this fact. The lives of the saints and all who have died that we might have life more abundantly, present a mountain of testimony that the ways of peace call for as much real courage, noble sacrifice, high adventure, and a willingness to die for a cause, as does war.—A. J. Stoddard in Our Dumb Animals.

Build Ships

Canada May Build Cargo Ships For The Netherlands

Negotiations are being carried on between the Canadian and Netherlands governments for the construction of cargo ships for The Netherlands merchant marine fleet in Canadian shipyards, Munitions Minister Howe is quoted as saying.

Mr. Howe also disclosed that the Brazilian government has contracted with Vickers, Ltd., of Montreal, for the construction of four 4,000-ton ships.

The contract under discussion with The Netherlands government has not been completed and there is no immediate indication of where the ships would be built. It is understood the contract might be for 30 ships to be used in The Netherlands East Indies.

Are On The Way

Summits Will Cause Radio Interference For Next Five Years

Officials of the department of transport's meteorological section said in Toronto that Canadian radio listeners, especially those who are short-wave addicts, can prepare themselves for an invasion of fade-outs, squeakings and sundry other forms of reception interference which probably will reach its peak during 1948.

Summits, the bans of aircraft crews and naval wireless operators, are on their way. The unique 11-year cycle which meteorologists have watched for nearly 200 years, has just finished its lowest trend. For the next five and a half years the incidence of spots on the sun will steadily increase, with the greatest noticeable effect being on radio reception.

India's Railways

System Is The Fourth Largest In The World

The Indian railroad system is the fourth largest in the world, only Russia, the United States and Canada taking precedence.

The route mileage open to traffic in 1938-39 was 41,134, consisting of 21,285 miles of broad gauge track (5'6"), 15,767 miles of metre track (3'6") and 4,122 miles of narrow gauge track (2'6" and 2').

A further 1,000 miles of track are being constructed, short feeder lines designed to promote the marketing of agricultural products.

LARGEST LIZARDS

Monitor dragons of Komodo Island, the world's largest lizards, weigh 200 pounds and reach a length of 12 feet, yet scientists overlooked their existence until 1912.

Tuberculosis In Wartime

Rapid Method Is Now Used For Examining The Lungs

The most spectacular development in wartime tuberculosis work, Mass Miniature Radiography, is a method of examining the heart and lungs which has been made possible by the modern camera using a high angle lens. It works as follows: The X-ray tube sends rays through the patients chest and they form an image on the sensitive X-ray screen. The special camera with the large aperture takes a photograph of this chest image on a piece of gelatino film, about one inch square. These squares are on a continuous strip so arranged that hundreds of pictures can be taken in one hour. This continuous strip of film is then developed, and each picture, containing the chest image and serial number of one individual case, is magnified on a screen so that it can be examined by the radiologist. Mass radiography, of course, is much cheaper than taking hundreds of full-sized films, and gives miniature pictures of the general indication of whether the chest is normal or not, and whether a large film is desirable for more adequate inspection.

Mass radiography is not a method of final diagnosis, and must not be treated as such. But it enables the population of a school, a factory, or even a whole area to be examined quickly and cheaply. It is largely in use throughout the fighting services. A number of specially designed X-ray units are being manufactured, and in use throughout Britain. Two of the sets are to be sent to Russia by the British Ministry of Health (in replacement of two already sent but unfortunately lost at sea).

A GIANT CROCODILE

The body of a giant crocodile, measuring 18 feet 4½ inches, has been captured in the River Volta, near Anauichure in the Gold Coast. It took 15 men to drag the body to dry land and two men to lift the head. In the crocodile's stomach were found 85 pebbles which, local people say, means the creature was 85 years old.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

PRECIOUS HOMESTEAD

By GEORGE CHURCHMAN

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

The hot South African sun was beginning to dip behind the craggy mountain peaks. Its waning rays, shining in through the cottage windows, glistened brightly about the cutlery on the best little table. Caught Linda's hair, too, and were reflected from it like a mass of sparkling jewels.

Linda smiled fondly as she gazed about the little room. Everything was in readiness. In a few moments now Greg would arrive. How sweet it was to recall the happy memories stretching from the day they were married to this very day—their first anniversary!

The rattling of the screen door startled her. She whirled, and saw Greg. A Greg with hollow eyes and drooping shoulders—a grin, despondent Greg.

"Why, Greg, darling!" She ran to him, little devil of fear clutching at her heart. "Tell me about it, dearest."

"He smiled wilyly. 'Forget it, Lin. I always take the tough breaks too hard.'"

Linda led him over to a big easy chair and tucked off his heavy work boots. She had an inkling of the trouble. She said softly: "Your job, Greg?"

He nodded. "They kicked about my production." His voice was bitter. "Told me I was too slow."

Linda's vivid blue eyes flashed. "The beast!" she cried. "They ruin a man's health with their filthy job and then fire him when he can't measure up! But come on, darling, let's argue, feigning gaiety. 'It's our first anniversary, you know...'"

As the days slipped by, and Greg's continuous search for work proved fruitless, the assurance dwindled fast. Not a little of her time was given to periods of worry; the rent, a small sum they'd borrowed, the overdue grocery bill. She too, like Greg, grew sullen and morose.

One evening as they lay down to sleep, Linda's heart sank as she saw the story look in his eyes. He lost no time in explaining the purpose of his call. "It's been two months since your last payment, you know," he told Greg. "Aren't you working yet?"

Linda said: "I'm sorry, Mr. Horton. He's still trying, ever so hard." J. G. Horton, owner of half the property in the district, seated himself in the easy chair. "I have an offer to make," he said. "You buy this place from me for an even two thousand and I'll give you a job tomorrow. You can pay me as rent."

"Greg was out of his chair in an instant. 'You crook!' he yelled. 'I've heard of your dirty tricks before. Why, you'd be lucky to get eight hundred for the place!'"

"That's enough, you young idiot," J. G. Horton drew himself up sharply. "I'm giving you one week to vacate."

When he had gone, Linda cut loose with a flood of tears that would have put to shame the offerings of a Chinese professional mourner. "Why couldn't you take his offer, Greg?" she cried. "He said we could pay him as rent."

"Never!" Greg retorted. "I'd rather live in a tent than let him rob me."

"That's the trouble with you men. You're too foolish, too proud. There'll come a day when you'll have to act against your better judgment!"

Greg growled an inaudible reply and left her.

Next morning, a few hours after Greg had started out on his daily rounds, three men appeared at the kitchen door; two were strangers, the other, Fred Horton, was the landlord's son.

"Morning, Mrs. Kennedy," Young Horton tipped his sun helmet. "We're looking for the old Redner Homestead."

The Redner Homestead had been demolished years before by a severe gale. Linda told them. "In fact," she added, "it was situated on this very property."

Young Horton's eyes lighted. Jupiter! he gasped. "Dad owns this place, doesn't he?"

Linda nodded. "Come on, then," he told his companions. "We'll sample her."

Linda's eyes followed the men as they trudged out into the back field. For perhaps an hour they worked there digging a hole. One of the strangers then marched around it, turning a cranklike affair.

It dawned on Linda in one sudden lightning flash. They suspected danger on the property!

A few minutes later, the trio returned and asked permission to use her stove. One of the strangers dropped a handful of earth into a small crucible and placed it over the flame, then examined a particle through a microscope. He leaped back with a wild shout of elation.

"Young chap," he said to Horton. "I'm prepared to offer you a fat $50,000 for this property."

"I'm sorry," the youth said. "My father is the owner."

"Yes, yes, of course! Good-day Mrs. Kennedy, and much obliged to you. Come, Mr. Horton. We must see that fortunate father of yours." Linda cried bitterly when they had departed. Knowledge of the fortune that might have been theirs but for Greg's stubbornness, kept pounding at her brain.

A weary voice jerked her back to reality. Greg had returned, a folded sheet of paper in his hand.

"I had to do it, Linda," he exclaimed. "I hate going back on my word. But he had everything ready—promised me a job in the morning—so I just signed, honey."

Answers Critics

German Prisoners Aware Of Allied Policy Regarding Unconditional Surrender

Mr. Anthony Eden gave some interesting facts when answering critics in the British House of Commons. He was replying to the contention that the Allied policy of unconditional surrender for Germany stiffens the resistance of German soldiers, tending to make them immune to Allied appeals to surrender.

Mr. Eden told the House that 77% of the prisoners captured since the landings in Normandy have admitted, on interrogation, that they had read Allied pamphlets and listened to Allied radio messages. He also said that 40% of the prisoners were carrying Allied leaflets in their pockets when captured. Many of them had read the leaflets and regarded them as something in the nature of a passport for the moment of surrender.

Editor Of The Whitehorse Star Tells Of Development Up North

Whitehorse, Yukon, is expected to have a population of 3,500 when normal times are resumed. After the war, Horace E. Moore, publisher of the Whitehorse Star, stated in Winnipeg, where he attended the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association convention.

At present nearly 30,000 people live in Whitehorse, he said, mostly American army personnel. Under the Canal project 3,000 gallons of oil flow daily through the pipe-line to the refinery in Whitehorse. While the number of Canadians employed at this time are few, they are being gradually increased, he said.

Mr. Moore reported that the Dominion government has reserved 800 acres for an experimental farm in the Klondike district, near the White River area.

"We've lived out of cans a long time, but we're hoping a lot of fresh vegetables will be brought in by highway from the Peace River area now," the publisher said.

The Whitehorse Star, a 43-year-old weekly paper, was winner of the Charters cup in 1942, an award for the best weekly in Canada with a circulation up to 500. Mr. Moore has published the paper 12 years—Winnipeg Free Press.

Looking Ahead

German Government Is Planning To Finance Exiled Nazi Organizations

Large funds are being secretly deposited by the German Government in several neutral countries to finance exiled Nazi organizations after the war.

In some cases these funds are in the form of goods, which are being warehoused abroad for sale through neutrals in anticipation of Germany's inability to unload them direct on Allied nations.

By this method, whatever happens to Germany or other European countries, the Nazi organizations which will go underground abroad will be self-supporting for years—London Daily Sketch.

Luxury Air Liner Planned To Make Overnight Trip

"We can't say how expensive it will be comparable to the cost of a trip of that distance aboard a luxury liner."

RECIPES

VICTORY GARDEN SPECIAL

With all signs pointing to a bumper crop of tomatoes, now is the time to collect recipes for serving this favorite garden vegetable. Fresh tomatoes are most often served sliced or quartered with salt and pepper, or sugar and vinegar, or your favorite salad dressing—but don't pass by suggestions for tomatoes in made dishes. Here is a recipe for a delightful luncheon dish.

Baked Tomatoes With Cheese

4 large tomatoes
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup corn flakes
¼ teaspoon paprika
2 teaspoons melted butter
¼ cup grated cheddar cheese

Wash tomatoes, remove stems and cut in halves crosswise. Place cut side up in baking pan; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 10 minutes.

Crush corn flakes into fine crumbs, mix with paprika and melted butter. Cover each tomato half with grated cheese, sprinkle with crumbs. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) three minutes or until cheese is melted. Serve on toast if desired.

Yield: 8 servings.

Restrictions Lifted

Some Signs In Britain May Now Be Used Again

Signs on shops and vehicles in Britain giving place names can be used again. Mr. Morrison has lifted a war ban, reports the Trans-Atlantic Daily Mail. When invasion threatened in 1940 display of any sign having the name, situation, direction, or distance of any place was prohibited, if the sign could be read from a highway, train, or low-flying plane. Under the new order the prohibition is limited to signs which can be read from low-flying aircraft. This will allow re-erection of large number of signs on shops and other business premises, although large-scale signs on prominent buildings will still be ruled out. If a sign is in a prominent position so that an uninterrupted view of it can be obtained from a low-flying plane, the sign must be not more than six inches high. Exhibition of place names on vehicles is exempted from all restriction.

Feast Of Celebration

Natives In Sudan Rejoice Because Waves Will Cost Lives

In the Sudan, in the heart of the "Dark Continent," as the up-to-date world likes to call it, the natives by thousands last month were holding a tribal dance and a feast of celebration. The expulsion of the Axis from North Africa, the surrender of Italy and the other victories of the United Nations had nothing to do with the cause.

What prompted the joyful demonstration, we are told by an Exchange Telegraph Agency dispatch, was the official announcement in Khartoum that the prices of brides in that territory had been reduced to £6 for the first wife and £3 for the second.
